

CLAYTON MISSOURI: AN URBAN STORY

To commemorate our community's centennial, the Clayton Century Foundation facilitated the publication of Clayton, Missouri: An Urban Story by author Mary Delach Leonard with Melinda Leonard, a public historian. This richly illustrated, coffee-table book tells Clayton's story from the very beginning, through newspaper reports, anecdotes, resident voices, timelines, and fun facts, plus photographs of nostalgic images of the city's past and modern community scenes. This book was published in 2012.

The book is an ideal gift for families, children living out of town, and former residents, as well as new-to-town neighbors, employees and colleagues. It will be perfect for your home library and corporate lobby.

This fine publication is available for purchase now at The Center of Clayton located at 50 Gay Avenue. Your copy of Clayton, Missouri: An Urban Story is just $20.00. All proceeds will benefit the Clayton Century Foundation.
